Christmas Greetings:

It gives me special pleasure, at this time of year, to extend holiday greetings to the readers of your paper. I sincerely hope that the yuletide atmosphere will be evident, not only in glistening lights and community trees, but in an even greater friendliness between all groups which make up our community.

May the true spirit of Christmas bring forth a feeling of interracial goodwill, religious tolerance and international peace which will prevail throughout the coming New Year.

May you have a joyous Christmas, and may the coming year be one of accomplishment for us all.

Sincerely,

MAYOR

CANDLES GLOW AT CHRISTMAS

Many traditional candle customs, higher today, derive from Christmas, especially in Germany, where candles are placed in windows to provide a glowing welcome for the Virgin Mary and a host of angels who are believed to pass over the countryside each Christmas. From Ireland comes the custom of putting a lighted candle in the window on Christmas Eve to light the way for the Holy Family. People everywhere, no matter what the time of year, gather in the presence of a candle to pay their respects to the Holy Family.

Music Hall Plans Show for Months

EDITOR'S NOTE—One of the Christmas season specialties of Portland, New York is the event that draws thousands of people to the city's famous and historic Music Hall. This year, the production was expected to be as grand as any other in the past, with a cast of thousands and elaborate sets designed to transport the audience to another time and place.

By Leon Leonard

Preparations begin months in advance for the traditional pageant that celebrates the Nativity and the birth of Jesus. The entire city is transformed into a festive setting, with decorations and lights adorning every corner.

The show is produced by the senior producer, who has been working with the show for several years. The producer is known for his attention to detail and his ability to create a magical atmosphere.

This year, the show was entitled "New York Nativity Pageant," and it was scheduled to run for several weeks leading up to Christmas. The pageant was expected to feature a variety of performers, including dancers, singers, and actors, as well as a large cast of characters from the Bible.

The pageant was set against the backdrop of the city's famous landmarks, with sets designed to bring the story of Christmas to life. The show was expected to be a popular attraction, drawing large crowds from around the country.

The pageant was scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. nightly, with special performances occurring on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.
Adam and Eve and The Christmas Tree

...and celebrate Christmas as befits his belief. Most of all, of love and humility, provided the guiding light for the peoples of the earth.

As we enter this most important of all holiday seasons we have a great deal for which to be thankful. We share the strength and joy of being able to live as free men, each able to recognize and accept the significance of Christ's birth.

For, throughout the centuries, that one life has, by example of love and humility, provided the guiding light for the peoples of the earth.

His greatness was his willingness to give of Himself for the Father and for mankind. Let this Christmas season be therefore filled with thanks to the Giver of all good things, Our Lord, and may that thankfulness find its expression in service to your fellow man.

GOVERNOR OF OREGON

As we journey along the road of life, may the light of the Christmas star continue to guide us, strengthening our resolve to do all we can to achieve lasting peace on earth.

The Christmas Story...

...that night many years ago, a wily cherub, perched on the topmost branch of an evergreen tree on the hillside of Bethlehem, broke into print. A York, Pa., newspaper published the historic event--part of a notice for a charity affair.

In a way, it was only natural for Americans to pick up the custom so widely. Evergreen trees were abundant, the first greenery spread by the Pilgrims when they stepped ashore. And by chance they were not available, Americans could be inventive. One Illinois resident used a dried hickory tree in the 1800s. Another craftsman discovered a tiny bush with popcorn and colored paper.

It had, a New Hampshire, President Franklin Pierce, to bring an adorned tree to Washington. But it wasn't until Calvin Coolidge's term as President in 1923 that the first ceremonial lighting of the White House tree took place. Today, the executive mansion's tree is a warm and familiar center of attention in the home of the President.

White House for all to see.

In individual homes, in New York's Rockefeller Center, on Christmas cards and in popular magazines--there it is found the Christmas tree today. It is a symbol rooted at all that is good and cheerful and warm about the holiday. And, as the years have passed, the tradition has flourished. There's no grander or more festive event than Christmas dinner. The scene in reality of green, silver, with heavy with all its trimmings, and that heavy table cloth sparkles in the candlelight.

The high point arrive when the traditional ham comes to the table, hand-carved and garnished ready to fall apart on your silver as it is carved.

An extra jelly makes an appropriate glib for this occasion. The gelatin might be white, papillot confectionery, artificial jelly and a ham.

A BONNIE ham makes the most joyful appearance and need not be difficult to carve. Arrange on the platter and slice off the skin away from the "hamp"—and also cut a wedge to the shank end.

Bake it in a 350-degree oven according to the directions given elsewhere on this page.

Moreover, combine one cup cherry jelly and one-fourth cup water; heat, stirring constantly, until jelly melts.

Timing Baked Ham

Most hams today have directions for boiling and serving right on the label. In any event, the label will tell you either the ham is the uncooked (just heat through) or the cook-before-eating kind.

To the latter, boil at 300 degrees 8 to 9 minutes to the pound, or until the thermometer registers 160 degrees. Fully cooked (ready-to-eat) hams generally take

Timing the Turkey

The following chart gives approximate cooking times for modern turkeys using 325-degree oven temperature for turkeys 12 pounds and under, 300 for larger birds.

Timing Roast Beef

The following times for roasting a standing rib roast of beef are approximations. A chunky roast will take longer in cool than a flatter one, for instance, and quality of the beef, plus proportion of fat to meat, will cause variations.

To be sure of turning your roast as you like it, use a meat thermometer. Rare roast beef will register 140 degrees, medium 200 and well done 300. Oven temperature for all times of meats should be 325 degrees.

It is a safe bet that the Spend-your-Holidays-At-Home club is the biggest in these parts. The reason is not far to seek. The winter months are a time for family, friends, and holidays. It is a time when the world slows down, and the holiday spirit takes hold. Whether you are celebrating Christmas, New Year's Eve, or simply enjoying a winter break, there is no better time to be at home. The holidays are a time to relax, unwind, and enjoy the company of loved ones. So, don't plan on leaving home this holiday season. Instead, plan on spending your holidays at home, where you can enjoy the comforts of your own home, and the company of your loved ones. And who knows, you might just find that the holidays at home are the best of all.
