The Portland Journal of October 17, 1911, features a review of a concert held at the town of Newberg, Oregon. The concert was sponsored by the Buxom Belles and Dashing Dandles, a group associated with the Paramount Theater. The review notes the performance of Rachael, a work by Mary Turner Salter, and the presence of significant artists such as Jack Holt, Ralph Graves, and Lawrence Olivier. The review also discusses other performances and events taking place around the city, including a concert at Elks Hall and a meeting at the Zion church. The article highlights the entertainment and cultural activities available to residents of the area.
West Indian Racial Purity Advantageous

by Carter G. Woodson

The success of the West Indian race in the development of the sugar and rice industries in the United States is due to its racial purity. The West Indians, who came from the British West Indies, were a homogeneous people, primarily of African descent with a small admixture of European blood. They were not influenced by other races, and their cultural and political development was unaffected by the presence of other races.

Keeping Fit

by Dr. Delsart Utica, M.D.

SUSCEPTIBILITY TO DISEASE

The susceptibility of individuals to disease is influenced by a variety of factors, including genetic predisposition, environmental exposures, and lifestyle choices. Regular exercise can help to reduce the risk of chronic diseases such as heart disease and diabetes.

Helpful Hints

by Nancy Lee

With frequent exposure to sunshine, a person is more susceptible to skin cancer. It is important to wear sunscreen and protect the skin from harmful ultraviolet rays.

‘Daughters’ Honor ‘Mammie’ Type

by William Pickens

The official biography of the late Mrs. Sarah “Mammie” Dudley, who was shot and killed by a lynch mob in 1924, is being published in honor of her contributions to the community.

Hughes Wants To Know If It Is Justice

by Langston Hughes

If the Negroes had been good little Negroes, the white people would have let them have their rights. But there is no good Negro. Even the white people know that. And the Negroes don’t even know that.

Garvey to Geneva

Sgt. Jos. White Camp

The story of the Negro is told by the recollections of the former slave. He speaks of the hardships and sufferings of his people, of the oppression and injustice they have suffered.

Up-to-the-Minute Modes

by Tilda Lee

African blood. By speaking in this way, the African blood is separated from the African Negro. This is the way we have got to keep the African blood in.
