Beware Of "Bogus" Census Taker School Warnings

The Oregon ADVANCE
Thursday, October 29, 1968

Children from 3 to 6 years get under your feet some times. However, there is nothing for the Anti- American to look up to. We are the big people, the giants, and we can act very good.

I am proud of my race because there is nothing for the Afro-American to look up to. We are the big people, the giants, and we can act very good.

Drama Group Active
The Albina Art Center Drama Group is producing, "Clowns from Mississippi." This production through the use of songs, and the reading of actual letters, attempts to capture the con- scious and unconscious of a voter-registration drive in the area from which the group is interested in this unique production for your social organization.

In recent weeks there has been conversation going on in many circles about a Multi- purpose Center For Whom?

The Model Cities area has been discussed as a possible site for the center.

The idea behind the center is to have a variety of services operating from it. It would be an extension of the present Neighborhood Service Centers. However, the services would be greatly expanded. The services would include health, employment, social services, and a rehabilitation center, to name a few.

The idea at face value appears good. However, some questions at this point should be asked. First, is there such a hub, or center? Second, why have none of the grass roots people in the area to take care of the problems.

The Model Cities area should have a right to know, and the black people in particular. After all, they are the primary reason for having a Multi-purpose Center and other innovative programs.

Second, it builds confidence in the community - the confidence that can only come by participation.

In this age of integration there is seldom anything that can be seen in the light of politics. There are too many spokesmen and agency that are not in reality speaking for anyone but themselves.

Recent newspapers and TV programs have given attention to the black community as a whole and have been presenting to the black community these so-called leaders. The question that comes to mind is how do these news media determine if these people are really speaking for anyone.

The Oregon Advance/TIMES is dedicated to serve as a platform for community expression. The black community is too large for any one or two spokesmen. Also, it is too complex. How can a doctor of medicine speak for the housewife or vice versa? How can the youth speak for the middle-aged or the law-breaker speak for the law to the law? How can a church member speak for a church member? The society in which we live is very complex and no one has a monopoly on all learning. There should and must be a platform on which all people in the black community can voice their opinions.

The Oregon Advance/TIMES is the incumbent for Security for two and a half years or more. If I were to go to the school and see where I was taught I would have to look in the black community. is the power behind the throne in the governing the establishment.

At the time I first started at C-CAP, Frank Fair was the director, and after about a year I was selected as a seat on the Portland Board, and Samuel Johnson took over the director position. After a period of time, Samuel Johnson is one of those people who will help others even if they are not otherwise.

So when Johnson made me see the light clearly because I was making a scene and so good myself. After I was Security for about a year I learned that Sam was one of those few people whom you can't do anything to, helped by boys of my type and at present was re-elected. At the time I first started at C-CAP, Frank Fair was the director, and after about a year I was selected as a seat on the Portland Board, and Samuel Johnson took over the director position. After a period of time, Samuel Johnson is one of those people who are good in the light clearly because I was making a scene and so good myself.

Fair was the director, but after about a year I was selected as a seat on the Portland Board, and Samuel Johnson took over the director position. After a period of time, Samuel Johnson is one of those people who are good in the community. He was sponsored by the High­ land Community Center, and Samuel Johnson moved to the office.

Everyone I know has liked Sam throughout the time I've known him. Even though in awhile there might be a problem. And really I know think Sam is a good leader without tiring like Frank Fair's, their programs wouldn't have lasted. In order to get the funding, your fellow man and organization, in order to get the funding, your fellow organization, for any individual person, you have to give up a time didn't want to listen to Sam, just like one of a lot of other people, things he told me were right and I accepted wise.

It is the responsibility of the Oregon Advance/TIMES readers will see the news wanted notice in this paper.

"I'm Angie Davis. If you're interested in working for Pacific Northwest Bell, you and I should get together for a talk."

"My job as an employment interviewer is to talk with people about PNB jobs, openings all over Oregon...worthwhile jobs with good pay and benefits."

"I started with the phone company as a telephone operator in Portland. I had a number of different jobs before becoming part of the PNB management group in 1960."

"From my experience I can say that your chance of getting a job with a worthwhile job, with pay while training...depends on just one thing. You. Let's have a talk about it."

With just one authorization, your savings deposits are transferred every month from your checking account, where the money is put in funds during the school year.

Chester Moran, NYC Coordinator at Jefferson High School, stated that he and staff were able to place approximately 495 students in summer jobs. Some of the students were placed at the Police Department, Neighborhood Service Center, Libraries and various schools throughout the city. The NYC Program will conclude its summer program Friday, because of this program, many young people have had jobs for the summer. Parents should write letters to Jefferson High School, NYC Board, and state their appreciation for their program and their hope for an increase in funds during the school year.

The Neighborhood Service Center is the only legally recognized organization that speaks for Albina and its residents and is the one place you can citizens can effectively be seen and heard with lasting results. Our meetings are held on the first Wednesday of every month. If you are satisfied with the way the Center and Model Cities are presently running, then we take it for granted that everyone is happy by your silence. Immature teenagers are running wild, school is fast becoming a large reality, housing is getting worse! Are you really satisfied?

Authentic Full Size Viking Ship Coming To Portland

An authentic replica of a Viking ship, slated to be a highlight feature of a two-week salute to Scandinavia, last year's popular Portland event last Monday aboard the Swedish Johnson Line vessel, the Gokstad. The attractive sailing craft will be public display after a two-day voyage up the Columbia River to Portland in late September.

According to officials of Meller & Frank, who arranged the ship, it will be displayed at a Junior Chamber of Commerce "Tivoli Gardens" fun, food and entertainment center at Portland Towers between September 23 and 25 and at OMSI until October 5.

Plans call for a volunteer crew of 13 persons, dressed in authentic Viking costume, to sail the boat from Astoria to Portland, leaving the downriver port on the morning of Saturday, September 21. An overnight stop will be made at Longview the next day. On Sunday, the boat will travel to Vancouver, where it will remain overnight. It will arrive in Portland about 10:30 Monday morning, September 23. The costumed crew will be greeted at the seawall by Mayor Terry D. Schrunk, Scandinavian dignitaries in town for the festivities, and by Portland's Scandinavian cousins.

The boat will be captained by Goran Kvarnstrom, Swedish Trade Commissioner, and the crew will be made up of 12 persons, dressed in authentic costume, provided by Portland's Scandinavian community.

An exact half-scale replica of the famed Norwegian Viking "Gokstad" ship, which is 70 feet long. Her builder took off all measurements and faithfully followed design details of the original, including intricate carvings along the gunwale, the figurehead, mast and steering mechanism. The little craft is 37/1-2 feet long, with a nine-foot beam.

The crew will wear authentic Viking costumes, complete with horned headdress, swords, shields, spears and drinking horns. Appropriate ceremonies are planned at Astoria, Longview and Vancouver, with boats in head and the original Viking drink, which will be carried in cans on board. Local yacht clubs will escort the boat up the river and she will be greeted on her Portland arrival by a round from a cannon raised from the Swedish warship, Wasa, which sank in Stockholm harbor in 1567 on her maiden voyage. The Wasa recently was raised and restored.

Cool Cool Water Huh!
by EMILE SUMMERS

Since the days of the old west, when the cattlemen used to fight over water rights and charge exhorbitant prices to those in need of water, it has been generally assumed that water, the stuff of life, was one of our gifts from God, to quench the thirst of the traveler, the weary and the sick. But this evening I was informed by a lady who if necessary I would come forward and testify, that while spending your hard-earned money at a well-known chain store, I shall take my Boy Fortunati, for the drinck.

The shipping space in this particular store cost this lady exactly 16 dollars and five cents. You know what the five cents was for.

Personally, when and if ever do go shopping in this world, I take along with me and I may be able to boot, lay a little of this precious liquid. If they charge five cents here, I wonder what the price is in New York and Chicago, you bet to be in Chicago now at the convention.

Effort means nothing with out results.

The Hills Visit Portland

The Oregon Advance/TIMES August 29, 1968

Governor Tom McCall announced today that purchases made by the State of Oregon will be conducted on an open bid basis without regard to location of manufacturer. This policy conforms to an anticipated attorney general's opinion.

"The new policy," McCall said, "will eliminate any discrimination which may have existed in the past in state specifications toward products manufactured outside of the United States."

The Governor said the order will result not only in a financial savings for the state, but should stimulate foreign trade in Oregon by eliminating some imposed "non-tariff" barriers to international commerce.

"This decision is aimed at encouraging international trade in Oregon. We will watch the results with every consideration to the effect on the state's economy," McCall said.

McCall made his announcement following a meeting with state agency administrators for the Highway Department, Department of General Services, Department of Commerce, Division of Economic Development and Port of Portland.
Dear L.Y.M.P.

I thought I'd put your question to the back of my mind for a while. When I re-read it, I realized that the crux of the matter was the feeling that you were being misunderstood. Let me try to put it another way.

You are not being absolutely, unambiguously misunderstood. What you missed was that the people who were speaking to you were conveying a sense of sarcasm, or perhaps a joking tone. Their intention was not to misunderstand you, but rather to make fun of your belief in the existence of a "Mugwump".

Let's break it down. "You don't know what a Mugwump is?" This is the equivalent of saying, "You don't know what a sock is?" No one would take you seriously if you asked what a sock is. Similarly, saying "You don't know what a Mugwump is?" is not asking for a definition, but rather a reaction to your ignorance.

The people who were speaking to you were not trying to make you feel like you were being misunderstood. They were trying to make you laugh. It's not a difficult concept, but it's easy to miss if you're not paying attention.

So, the next time someone says something that you think is out of context, try to listen for the underlying sarcasm. It might save you from feeling misunderstood.

Yours sincerely,

Wallace Appeal To County Voters No Surprise

held to be in the majority, of course, those opposed were merely sitting in on the action, but it helps a little to know how many of the people present were there out of curiosity and didn't like what they saw.

One issue I feel necessary to take up concerning Mr. Wallace's speech is when he spoke of his state having a teaching profession in 1800s,

Wisconsin.

His own home was purchased for $2,000, and he and Georgie didn't team up to one of his educational institutes to prevent the enticipation speech, when he was brevity the present administration, Mr. Nixon spoke of the shams on the country that his president could not travel abroad without danger of bening assaulted. I wonder if the gentleman remembers when he was traveling in South American countries and tomatoes and eggs thrown at him. Maybe that was too long back for him to remember the remark along the line about a nation "that for centuries has been known for its equality of opportunity being threatened with riots and other disorders. What is

Mr. Nixon's idea of equality of opportunity? I simply wonder if he will limit his statement to Caucasians only and the

of Negroes. In fact, it hasn't been a century ago that the Irish were subjected to the same humiliating situations that Negroes in today.

and how about the Jews?

Weading themselves off that a century is a long time. He has probably forgotten that when he lived in California his own home was purchased under a contract that he would not sell it to a Negro. That puzzled me in
