

Northwest Journal of Teacher Education

Volume 17
Issue 3 Confronting Teacher Preparation
Epistemicide: Art, Poetry, and Teacher
Resistance

Article 34

11-22-2022

Sonnet from the Future

Marco AG Cerqueira
Washington State University, marco.cerqueira@wsu.edu

Follow this and additional works at: <https://pdxscholar.library.pdx.edu/nwjte>

Part of the Poetry Commons

Let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Recommended Citation

Cerqueira, Marco AG (2022) "Sonnet from the Future," Northwest Journal of Teacher Education: Vol. 17 :
Iss. 3 , Article 34.
DOI: <https://doi.org/10.15760/nwjte.2022.17.3.34>

This open access Postlude is distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-ShareAlike 4.0 International License \(CC BY-NC-SA 4.0\). All documents in PDXScholar should meet accessibility standards. If we can make this document more accessible to you, contact our team.

Sonnet from the Future

Keywords

sonnet, Brazil, Lula, future, podcast, anti-fascist

Creative Commons License

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-Share Alike 4.0 International License.

Sonnet from the Future

Marco Gramacho Cerqueira

My pronouns are he/él/ele.
I'm a non-immigrant in the US of A.
Doctor of Philosophy, advisor, and gay.
My visa expires in May.

I cannot see my family in Brazil and celebrate Lula's election.
Is democracy safe anyways?
Facists here and facists there.
I'm an alien in both hemispheres.

Voiceless here voiceless there.
Not what antifascists say. They care.
Knowledge is not only in classrooms.

Public pedagogy is a way to give you voice.
Media literacy to podcast your culture, history, and identity.
The dialogues in the web will prepare you not to be erased.

This is not a sonnet.
Break the molds.
The future is in your hands.