Humbled Pedagogy

Creating

what is not yet among others reifying imagination encouraging reinterpreting reality studying making them more so working for what might be making them less so from what is not yet compelled, i should try that

studying paths

left in traces made by others compositions memory constructions story

try, tentatively.

pencil to paper, tentative strokes try, hesitantly. translating life; dark juxtaposed light actions noted, ordered, and memorized calling it line scripting life with over-made plans brush drenched water waves of color void of context self steeped in subject forming for enthusiastically intentionally transforming flat plane into space with color translating black ink words on paper with life — into life Making imagination into reality
