Abstract

PDXScholar, the repository for Portland State University, showcases three main collections that are automatically curated based on filters – tags that collect and display the content: Climate Justice, Racial and Gender Equity, and COVID-19. In this presentation, I will give an overview of our featured collections, their development and promotion, including the criteria for inclusion, technical aspects, and impact. The Digital Commons automated collection tool and system configuration will be briefly explained.

Keywords: Portland State University, Academic libraries, Institutional repositories – United States – Administration, Social justice, Racial justice, Climate justice, Environmental justice

This stuff has tentacles!
Are we solving the right problems?

- Where is research being conducted or produced?
- How can your library facilitate collaboration?
- Are there materials that are not being captured?
- What is your most inspiring content? How do you know?

A superb article, if applied to your own circumstances: Are You Solving the Right Problems? (Harvard Business Review)
This is Portland.

You've heard a lot about us lately.
It’s been a while since you’ve heard from us.

Some of what you've heard about Portland is true. Some is not. What matters most is that we're true to ourselves.

There’s a river that cuts through the middle of our town. It divides the east and west. But it's bridged over and over again. Twelve times, to be specific. And that's kind of a great metaphor for this city.

We’re a place of dualities that are never polarities, Two sides to the same coin that keeps landing right on its edge. Anything can happen. We like it this way.

This is the kind of place where new ideas are welcome – whether they're creative, cutting-edge or curious at first glance. You can speak up here. You can be yourself here.

We have some of the loudest voices on the West Coast. And yes, passion pushes the volume all the way up. We've always been like this. We wouldn't have it any other way.

We have faith in the future. We're building it every day the only way we know how, by being Portland.

Come see for yourself.

Love,
PORTLAND

COVID-19
With the goal of helping researchers find solutions to complex climate change problems and recognizing social justice and climate change are intertwined, the Digital Initiatives team, part of Portland State University Library, created the Climate Justice Collection. Our aim is to highlight the work of PSU researchers, foster cross-disciplinary collaboration, facilitate the co-creation of original research, and support climate advocacy.

The Racial and Gender Equity collection brings together a wide variety of research generated by the Portland State University community that is centered on the issues of racial justice, gender equity and related topics. The collection is designed to support people and organizations to interrupt institutionalized racism and sexism while developing knowledge and skills to deepen and broaden diversity, equity, and inclusion in their personal, professional and organizational practices.
This collection showcases journal articles, preprints, and other publications and presentations about the Coronavirus COVID-19 by faculty and researchers at Portland State University.

New Collection Criteria

- Research is:
  - Current
  - Popular
  - Resonant

- Collections can:
  - Spark action and positive change
  - Foster cross-disciplinary research
  - Generate enthusiasm for the repository/library/campus

- Potential sources to pinpoint timely/relevant topics:
  - Gartner, Pew, Wired, Google Trends
Technical Overview

- Subjects aka keywords/tags filter content.
- Nothing is manually added to these collections.
- Staff are trained to use 1 filter to trigger cross-indexing:

How to Create Featured Collections - Digital Commons

1. Request a new series from the Digital Commons support team.
2. In the collection configuration, check the “Featured publication” box.
3. Define search parameters to display items with specific metadata. (Auto-collect Feature)
4. Train staff to “tag” new items to include them in the collection.

NOTE: Any collection can display on the Featured Collections page.
The Automatic Collection Tool - Digital Commons

Digital Commons Instructions:

● Automatic Collection: Set It and Forget It *
● Collection Tool Tutorial – Automatic Collection (video)

Tips:

● Filters are not case sensitive.
● Quotes are recognized as characters, not phrase identifiers.
● Advanced search does not function the same - trial and error may be needed.

*RUN REGULAR UPDATES TO INGEST NEW CONTENT!
Filter Example: COVID-19

This is the most basic featured collection that we created, using abstract, keyword, and title search criteria.
Customized Filter Example: Climate Justice

Digital Commons customers can ask to have nearly any field added to the "Configured Fields" drop-down of the collection filters list.

Future Planning

When laws change, we can anticipate more writing related to the impact of those decisions.

These subject headings were added when Roe v. Wade was overturned.

In this way, we are ready for the filters to pull in new articles on these topics.

● Create Digital Commons alerts.
● Rip from YouTube.
● Use targeted web forms.
Google Alerts

Google Alerts: Monitor the web.

Create a Google Alert to receive email notifications when content about your topic is found on the web.

This usually results in popular media hits, but can lead to more scholarly content or spark promo ideas.

How to Rip from YouTube

YouTube-dlp (formerly known as YouTube-dl) – for example, from archive.org's team

Steps:
Move .exe file to your personal drive (in my case, H: drive)
Click on the Windows icon
Type cmd in the command line
Click on the command prompt to open
Find the YouTube video you want to download - copy the URL
In the command prompt box, type the following:
yt-dlp YouTube URL for example: yt-dlp https://youtu.be/NYGV-4Mqn6s (there is a space between the ty-dlp and the URL)
The movie is then downloaded to your personal H: drive

Ah-Hah! – How to Change the Conversation

● Underrepresented and marginalized voices produce content differently, so any approach to lifting up their voices must also be different.
  ○ Building trust with creators takes time, requires careful listening, and creative thinking.
  ○ Cross-index as much as possible.
  ○ Index monographs (books/videos).
● Promoting equity-centered content is iterative, builds community, and changes the conversation.
● Promote AV content to lead more people to the repository.
Questions for YOU:

What are you passionate about?

What topics excite you? Justice!

What people inspire you?

What patterns do you see?

What items/collections give you hope?

What themes can you weave together?

How can you connect creators/viewers?
